(Part A)

Many English idioms contain words about food, but their meanings have nothing to do with food. For example, if something is "your cup of tea," it means you like that thing very much. A "big cheese" is a very important person in a group. A "couch potato" is a person who loves to sit on the sofa and spends lots of time watching TV and eating snacks. Learning how to use these idioms is interesting, isn't it?

29. If someone says the computer game isn't his cup of tea, what does he mean?
 (A) He doesn't like drinking tea.
 (B) He doesn't enjoy playing the computer game.
 (C) He never plays the computer game.
 (D) He doesn't buy any tea.

30. Which person is a big cheese?
 (A) Jolin, who is a famous singer.
 (B) Peter, who loves to eat fast food.
 (C) Tom, who spends lots of time watching TV.
 (D) Linda, who is short and heavy.
