六、閱讀測驗 10%

(A 部分)

Dear Sylvia;

My parents asked me to write down what I thought about the last few days. I have no idea why they wanted me to do so, but I guess I have to. I still feel so sad when I think about Lopez. He was my best friend and I miss him a lot. Most of my friends can't understand how I could love a cat so much. They just don't know Lopez and I had so much fun when we were together. He always slept on the sofa next to my bed and stayed with me all night. Everybody told me his death (死亡) was not my fault (過錯). But I was the one that threw the tennis ball and asked him to get it back. It was not his fault and he just wanted to catch it. It was not the driver's fault, either. He tried to stop his truck when he saw Lopez but it was too late! Everything just happened in a short time. Both my parents told me I would feel better in a few months. Now, I keep some photos of Lopez by my bed. By doing so, it makes me feel better as if (宛如) he were lying (躺) next to me.

31. What does the underlined 'it' mean in the 10th line?

- (A) The picture.
(B) The truck.
(C) The cat.
(D) The ball.

32. What does the writer think about his cat's death?

- (A) Death is just one part of our life.
(B) Lopez died because of his carelessness (疏失).
(C) He is angry with the driver.
(D) His cat wasn't careful enough

33. Which is NOT true according to the passage?

- (A) The driver couldn't stop his truck in time.
(B) The writer's parents think time can help him feel better.
(C) Lopez is the writer's pet dog.
(D) The writer put photos of his cat beside his bed.

(B 部分)

More and more people eat out and don't want to cook on their own. They usually get their favorite food from restaurants or roadside stands. Cooking is time-consuming (費時的). Few people are interested in it. Because of this, more and more people get fat easily. The food they get is often full of high calories (卡路里). If you ask the overweight

(過重的) people, what do they usually have? Their answers are often steak, pork, chicken, ham, hamburgers --- and so on(等等). They seldom eat vegetables or fruit. Doctors often tell us we should eat at least six different kinds of vegetables or fruit a day. If we want to live a healthy life, we should make it a habit to do exercise regularly (定期地). Also, eating more healthy food is another wonderful habit to do us good (有益處).

34. What does the underlined "this" mean in the reading?

- (A) More and more people eat fruit.
(B) More and more people cook at home.
(C) More and more people eat out.
(D) More and more people eat with their families at home.

35. Which is true about the reading?

- (A) We should eat more meat than vegetables.
(B) Doing exercise is time-consuming.
(C) Eating steak or pork can make all of us as strong as cows.
(D) Eating more vegetables is good for our health.
