六、閱讀能力測驗: 10%

(A 部分)

Both Cambridge and Oxford have long histories. The two university towns in the UK have enjoyed their fame(名聲) back to the Middle Ages(中世紀)(1066~1485). Through the years, they both would have liked to keep the fame to themselves. However, neither of them is a weak competitor(競爭者). Years ago, they wanted to find a way to decide which school was stronger. Because fair play was greatly honored by both schools, they decided on a boat race. But exactly how did the 1st boat race between the two schools begin? It is said that it came from two good friends---Charles Merivale, a student at Cambridge, and his high school friend, Charles Wordsworth, a student at Oxford. Since eighteen twenty-nine, the race has become a tradition. In 2013, it has been held for 184 years. However, because of wars, there have been only 159 races.

31. Which of the following is NOT true about Oxford and Cambridge?
(A) Both schools are old.
(B) Both schools are world famous.
(C) Both schools started 2000 years ago.
(D) Both of them are in England.
32. According to the article, when did the first boat race start?
(A) In 1890 (B) In 1829
(C) In 1982 (D) In 2013
33. Where did the idea of a boat race come up?
(A) From two students.
(B) From Queen Elizabeth.
(C) From Oxford and Cambridge.
(D) We have no idea.

(B 部分)

If you have got opportunities(機會) to ask people around you what they would like to be, you won't be surprised to find that the answer you hear might be like these: a superstar, a doctor or a lawyer. Pride(傲慢:自負) is one of the reasons and money could be another. Most of us work day and night, not because we cannot take our life off our job but because work means more money. Moreover, one stands higher on the social ladder(社會階層) if one is a doctor or a lawyer. However, you will be surprised to hear that for one famous person, money and fame meant nothing at all. He said "NO" to both of them; instead (反而), he became a missionary, whose job was to spread (傳揚) the words of God. The man was called Albert Schweitzer.

34. According to the article, why do most people want to be doctors or lawyers?
(A) Because they want to help people.
(B) Because money means nothing.
(C) Because they have no dreams.
(D) Because they want to be rich.
35. What does a missionary do?
(A) He works for money.
(B) He works for God.
(C) He works as a clerk in a bank.
(D) He runs a book shop for living.
