三、閱讀測驗 10%

Mr. Brown, a rich man, took his son to the countryside to see how poor people lived. He wanted his son to know how lucky he was to grow up in such a rich family. They spent a few days and nights on some of the poorest farms in the country. On their way back home, Mr. Brown asked his son, "Did you see how poor people lived?" "Yes," said his son. "So, tell me what you learned from the trip." said Mr. Brown. His son answered, "I saw that we have one dog, but they have five. We have a small pond in the middle of our garden, but they have many big ones. We buy food, but they grow theirs. We have high walls around our house to protect us, but they have friends to protect them." Mr. Brown didn't know what to say. Then, his son added, "Thanks, Dad. I also learned that being rich isn't always better than being poor."
